EDWARD BOYLE, the New York millionaire, is the owner of the largest and most famous collection of fossils in the United States. He keeps them on his large summer estate at Deal, six miles from Long Branch. Visitors to this seashore resort frequently drive out to his place to see his curiosities. He delights in showing them to other men women in exhibiting their fast horses. His chicken house is filled with about 1,000 rare and costly specimens of the feathered tribe. The collection embraces every conceivable variety of rooster, hen and chicken. They represent a good deal of money. Some of them are natives of Japan, China, Madagascar, Egypt and other remote countries. The house which they occupy is three stories high and twenty feet deep. It covers the sides of a square in which a stable is built. It is painted in brilliant colors, and has a better appearance than many human habitations. There are seven compartments, in which the different breeds live. Only one breed is allowed out at a time.

The number of birth-places of noted men that are in sight from the top of Kearsage in New Hampshire, is remarkable. On the eastern side you look almost directly down upon a district ten miles square in which were born Ezekiel and Daniel Webster, William Pitt Fessenden, John A. Dix, Farmer, the eloquent and the Bartlett family (including Ichabod), famous in New Hampshire. Vice President Wilson was born in Farmington; Lewis Cass, in Exeter; U. S. Senator Grimes, in Deering; U. S. Senator Chandler, in Bedford; Levi Woodbury, in Portsmouth; Horace Greeley, in Amherst; General Butler, in Deerfield; Franklin Pierce, in Hillsborough; Chief Justice Chase, in Cornish, and Chief Justice Chase, of Maine, in Rumney—and all these places may be seen from Kearsage.

Col. JOHN B. BAYLOR, of San Antonio, Texas, has consented to the use of his name before the approaching State Convention, as a candidate for Governor. His name is a tower of strength among the frontiersmen and the old Texans. He has lived in Texas for thirty-three years. His elder brother, a West Pointer, now dead, participated actively in her early struggles for independence. The Colonel fought bravely for Texas against Mexicans and Indians. During the late war, Col. Baylor distinguished himself by his capture of Arizona from the Federal forces.

Miss MARY MARSHALL HARVEY, eldest daughter of the late Gen. J. B. Harvey, died in Chesterfield, Virginia, on the 27th ult. She was a grand-daughter of Chief Justice Marshall, and, through both branches of her family, was related to many of the oldest and most respected families of Virginia and Kentucky.

A contemporary, speaking of the difficulty of a newspaper editor, pleasing every body, says: "Even if one sounded the praises of his Maker, the Devil would be offended."
